

FUTURE

The DOP will continue to oversee and participate in the economic and environmentally safe production of oil and gas, the ultimate abandonment of the Wilmington oil field and upland properties, and the prevention of surface subsidence related to oil operations. Continued oil operations are expected to be ongoing for more than 10 years, but will depend upon the oil price. Subsidence monitoring and prevention, especially in the City's tidelands, will be necessary long after the oil production ceases and the wells are abandoned. As history has taught us, a stable land surface is necessary for the economic viability of the City of Long Beach.
